University of Alberta

The University of Alberta (UofA) is one of Canada's premier teaching and research universities serving more than 30,000 students with some 7,000 faculty and staff.

We have a simple objective here at the UofA – to be indisputably recognized in teaching, research and community service, nationally and internationally, as one of Canada's finest universities and amongst a handful of the world's best.

And we are well on our way to achieving this goal.

We are the home of Canada's only National Institute for Nanotechnology (NINT), a $120 million investment by the Government of Canada, through the National Research Council, the province of Alberta and the University of Alberta. NINT will be a world-class centre for cutting-edge nanotechnology research that is expected to revolutionize everything from computing and communications to medicine, energy and manufacturing.

The UofA captured the world's attention when we announced that our researchers had successfully used a UofA developed treatment to free diabetes patients from insulin by transplanting donor-pancreatic cells into eight people. Since the transplants several years ago, none of the patients has needed insulin injections and they no longer need to monitor their diet. Known as the "Edmonton Protocol", cautious optimism exists that this is a major breakthrough in the treatment of the most severe form of diabetes.

Our professors excel in the classroom as well as the laboratory. We continue to have the most 3M Teaching Fellows - Canada's only national award recognizing excellence in undergraduate teaching.

Our athletes dominate the national varsity sport scene and we lead the nation with the most Academic All-Canadians – students who successfully combine academic and athletic excellence.

Our researchers have the distinction of participating in all the federal Networks of Centres of Excellence – centres for university/industry/government research collaboration and partnerships. The UofA is also headquarters for two of these Network Centres – Protein Engineering and Sustainable Forest Management.

The UofA ranks among the top five Canadian universities in total research funding from the three federal granting councils. Since 1988, we have received more than $1 billion from external sources for research and our new target is a cumulative total of $2 billion by 2005.

Enjoy your visit to our park-like campus – taste the foods of the world in our many eateries in SUB and HUB International Marketplace; browse in our renowned Fine Arts Gallery; take a contemplative stroll through our Kurimoto Japanese Garden; or utilize our world-class physical education facilities in the Universiade Pavilion or Van Vliet Centre.
